Protecting your privacy is of utmost importance to me. The following policy is designed with that goal in mind.

Communication by Email

After the initial contact via phone (206-323-6114) and/or email (via Psychotherapy Today contact or my website (brian@briandesroches.com on www.briandesroches.com)), all email communication will sent to you via a secure server and email that will protect your identity.

The secure HIPAA-compliant email I ask you to use for all email correspondence is brian@therapyemail.com. I will respond to all email via this secure email address.

Texting (SMS)

Although convenient, texting is not a secure or confidential means of communication and your identity could be compromised if you use texting to contact me. If you do use texting to contact me, that is your individual choice. However, I will not respond to your texts via text to protect your privacy and will call you to respond instead when I have the time to do so. Thus, I suggest you call me at (206)-323-6114 to leave messages about being late or needing to cancel your appointment.

Social Media

I do not maintain any social media accounts such as Facebook, LinkedIn, Twitter, etc. Thus, I will not respond to any requests to link with any social media account that you have.

I have been informed of the Email, Texting and Social Media Privacy Policy of Private Practice of Brian DesRoches.
